

Phlebotomy Training

At Germanna's Center for Workforce & Community Education

PHLEBOTOMY WORKFORCE CREDENTIAL

$1475

Phlebotomists work directly with patients. Medical laboratories depend on the phlebotomy technician to collect quality samples from the patient to produce quality laboratory results. To do this, the phlebotomy technician must create an atmosphere of trust and confidence with patients while drawing blood specimens in a skillful, safe, and reliable manner. This course introduces basic medical terminology, anatomy, physiology, components of health care delivery, and clinical laboratory structure. It teaches techniques of specimen collection, specimen handling, and patient interactions. The course includes both lecture and clinical laboratory experiences.

This 160-hour program is designed to prepare the student for success in a variety of health care settings.

The Phlebotomy admissions process is competitive, the course is rigorous, and class size is limited. As part of the application process, applicants first need to complete the CRC Health Care Orientation class (HLTH 2259), and attain a satisfactory score on the CRC (Career Readiness Certificate) assessment. Check with our office for Orientation class and testing dates and times.

Applicants also need to provide documentation of various health related credentials to verify their current medical and dental health and provide verification of immunizations.

Additional fees apply for required criminal background check, liability insurance, books, health insurance, and supplies. Clinical rotations are scheduled for a variety of shifts between 7am – 11pm at various healthcare facilities.

Phlebotomy classes will be offered each semester. Upcoming classes are listed below:
